Meta Art - Last Chance, Flee Now! Red Pill Ahead, Dirty Astro

In homage to the Morpheus character in Matrix, be warned...

This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes.

This is your last chance, however in our current matrix, waking up in bed, believing as you choose has its own dire consequences as reality begins to intrude on both the bed and the rabbit-hole.

The meme of the moment, and growing, is the 2012 'rapid' approach. Humans have a tendency to mentally group numerals in relation to emotional boundaries. As an instance, any number over 10/ten, in almost all languages represents the concept of generic 'many'. In historical contexts for English, the words before 'many' included 'few', where 'few' is defined as between 3/three and 11/eleven, note that this not inclusive. Further emotional associations accrue to even smaller sub sets such as a 'hand full', or 5/five. Any body part archetype, in our thinking, represents a more critical, that is to say, base level of emotional attachment. The various emotional delineations relative to numerals is well known in the psy-ops/black arts business which includes commercial advertising. Numbers can be, are are used as a form of temporary mind control to direct thoughts along specific lines as the propagandist takes advantage of inherent human mental/emotional connotations around specific numbers.

We note that 2008 provides the planet with the passage into time where in the 'dooms day' meme of 2012 is now less than a hand full of years away. Having crossed the very powerful emotional barriers found at the 5/five numeral level since 5/five is intimately recognized every time a person looks at their hand, the planet is now progressed into an emotional state of [immediacy] as there are only 4/four years left before the "dreaded occurrence" what ever shape it should take. As the 4/four year barrier approach's with December 21, 2008, it is natural that the 2012 meme will start to rise in the general consciousness.

That humanity here on earth is facing daily evidence of continued biospheric degradation does not help. The escalation of daily doom elements ranging from peak oil to death of the dollar will also put additional emotional pressures in support of the 'end of the world as we know it' = 2012 meme. Recognizing this, many in the 'establishment media' are already 'positioning' themselves to profit from the expected mental wave currently growing throughout the populace globally. We note that humanity here on earth is facing daily evidence of continued biospheric degradation. Even [active denial] can only keep out the daily evidence for so long. Given the manifestations of the sudden, and very likely catastrophic climate change of these last 2/two decades, it can be surmised that the [cognitive dissonance] promoted by the collision of the mainstream media refrain of 'all is well', and "don't worry, be happy" with the gradual crushing in of reality on government sponsored, and largely manufactured illusions. We note that humanity here on earth is facing daily evidence of continued biospheric degradation and necessary resource depletion. The continued fracturing of the sheltered mind's view of the planet, and the low level murmur of "2012" will draw increasing attention toward the whole 2012 meme. This will include the various off-shoots ranging from 'forbidden archeology' all the way out to 'UFO's invade', or the opposing 'UFO's come to save us'. Many of those making first time forays into the literature of the 'dark side' and the 'woo-woo' will not return. Others may return temporarily, but as we note humanity here on earth is facing daily evidence of continued biospheric degradation, necessary resource depletion, and collapse of the USofA dollar as global reserve currency, so it will be harder to make the active denial work again.

Some in the mainstream, especially those who depend on stability of existing institutions for their power base will proclaim with increasing frequency, and volume, that "2012 is the stuff of psychedelic drug users, shamans, and the mentally feeble". Of course we note that these serious proclamations will come amidst a background of humanity here on earth is facing daily evidence of continued biospheric degradation, necessary resource depletion, collapse of the USofA dollar as global reserve currency, and the collapse of the USofA from super power to bankrupt "ruin" of her former self.

Now then is your last chance, flee now, the years remaining are few and falling dangerously close to only a 'couple', and we all can sense what that means...of course to flee, the question instantly arises 'to where?' And that is the answer which will be searched for with increasing desperation as the years dwindle from 4/four to only 3/three, and then only a 'couple', and suddenly we are there. Some thinkers are also providing bytes to chew on relative to this subject, and since no one knows a damn thing, and only speculations exist to be validated against screw theories trying to explain the continued daily evidence of biospheric degradation which is known to be pan-solar system, the red pill doesn't seem such a bad option. How deep does the rabbit hole go? Last chance to flee. Otherwise, hang on to your pies....

A discussion with Robert Hitt of www.astroecon.com included some information that the astrological situation for October 7th is not as 'clean' as we had previously thought. It does seem that the astrologic layout, specifically for the USofA, supports the idea of an 'unexpected' something(?) focusing on the 'legal system', or perhaps the 'rule of law' as an archetype to be manifesting on or about that day. The alignment in question is specific to that day, but astrologic influences are frequently observed to be exerting their power prior to the actual exact alignment time. The astrologic layout is of a significance that it may be rhyming with our modelspace projections for October 7th. Without regard as to a 'proximate cause' of the turning into release language on that day, Robert is of the opinion that there is a span of time from September 11th, 2008 through October 7th when the astrology indicates the set-up, then maturation, then culmination of this archetypal influence. The idea being that perhaps events are such that the Israeli's feel that they have 'nothing to lose', since it is clear by that time that their boy, McCain cannot possibly win the presidency, and further that the [devastation] of the [republican/neocon] effort is widely anticipated, so they manufacture a false flag incident on or about 9/11/2008 that will provide the 'justification' to launch an attack on Iran in early October. Note that this is just a single scenario of events which would fit both the astrologic alignments, and our modelspace. There are dozens of others which are equally credible. At this stage of things, the proximate cause of the plunge into release language in early October may be totally moot in that the 'mix' of the emotional quantifiers that we have places approximately a 40/forty to 40/forty split between [military], and [economic] causes, with the Terra entity supplying the rest. Further the data sets seemingly indicate that the [dollar, usofa] will become a [lost currency] over Fall and Winter without regard to what, exactly, starts the planet into the 'plunge' on October 7.

GlobalPop - Spotty Science, Sorcerers - a growth industry

Beginning in 2004, the ALTA reports began discussion of the [sun disease] which would be impacting the [global populace]. There has been a continuing internal debate here at HPH as to whether this indicated a [disease in humans caused by or triggered by or associated with the sun], or whether instead it referred to the [sun entering a state of disease]. At this time there is evidence that both interpretations are correct, and may be mutually supportive. It is certainly no secret that the sun is not behaving as the scientists expected with this new solar cycle. It is also true that the longer absence of 'typical solar cycle' behavior continues, the 'worse' the expectation for the 'breaking' of the 'current solar malaise (relative to sun spots)' is amongst climate scientists. There are projections from the solar evolutionists at NASA that either the current quiescence represents a rare sunspot absence period which usually induce global cooling here on terra, even to the point of inducing small duration ice ages should the lack of sun spots continue for some time (year+), or this is a 'new behavior' which therefore is assumed to be unpredictable. Of course in most of the scientific articles about the current solar cycle, the authors then go on to predict the outcome anyway. In many instances the 'new behavior' is suggested to end in very violent eruptions.

Human disease some how related to the [sun] is/was our other interpretation for the [sun disease] sub sets showing up in the data since 2003. There are several specific sets which continue to grow that go to the idea of [caring for the diseased] within the populace, and further the supporting sets for this context still are indicating that the [infirm and afflicted (with the) sun disease] would number in the [billions]. This is to say a very large segment of the [global populace] such that [basic infrastructure] in many [developed nations (would) break down]. This includes continuing references to the [electrical distribution system]. Also note that this more or less global impact on the planetary hodgepodge [electrical distribution system] is a very key context which forms the seed for the FuturePop entity forecast of a [renaissance (of) electricity] in 2013 and beyond such that by 2018 the [new electrics] are beginning to spread globally from SOC to SOC [self organizing collective]. Also note that we may be missing the point of the data with this interpretation, as there could also be a view that the [disease (lack of sun spots) in the sun] could produce a [break out] or devastating [CME \(coronal mass ejection\)] that then would [scrub terra] and thus [devastate the electrical distribution system]. Note that in both cases the [damage/devastation] and the results progress as indicated into a [revival of electrical creativity] in the years following the [sun disease impact]. But in the latter interpretation the [disease of the sun] erupts with much more dramatic visuals.

It is also possible that the same process(es) which are inducing the [disease in the sun] can be responsible for a concurrent [disease in humans]. This interpretation also allows for the simultaneous lack of sun spots in a cycle which was expected to be 50/fifty percent more active than 'normal', as well as for the appearance of [illness behavior/manifestations] in humans en masse. There are rising numbers of reports on the internet going to the idea of [disease], mostly [emotional or mental] affecting localities such that the perception of the [change of behavior/mood] becomes noticeable enough as to be reported from multiple sources/perspectives. If modelspace is being interpreted correctly, we will see both types of [sun disease] escalate over the rest of this year. There are specific pointers to a [outbreak] of the [sun disease] in Fall. The supporting elements are such that it seems to be pointing to [disease in human behavior induced by solar processes], rather than the [disease in the sun] interpretation. There is still some ambiguity, so it could also be that instances of both interpretations will emerge.

Along with the [solar] focus of these next 4/four years, the data accretion patterns within the GlobalPop entity are suggesting that something of a [growth industry] will blossom out of the [transformation] process affecting the [global populace] over 2009. The primary aspect set in support of this area has a descriptor set with 2/two likely interpretations, the first being [sorcerer], and the second going more toward the technical end of the range with [space alien science]. In the case of the latter, the supporting sets provide for a wide range of actual [sub sets of science] such as [space alien technology] as opposed to [space alien biology]. The idea is that a real effort to not be ignorant pigs takes over the [global populace] resulting in many and diverse [SOCS (self organizing collectives)] starting to [explore] the are of [space alien sciences]. Some of the data sets suggest that [officialdom] in some [countries] such as [France and Russia and China] will more (or less) reluctantly provide [official sanction] as well as [funding]. However the data also indicates that along with the rise of the 2012 meme will come a renewed interest in 'all things woo-woo' including [space alien science] and that as a consequence, the global populace will place its energy behind the various [initiatives to explore space alien science], and that funding will soon not be a problem.

There will be many [problems] with these explorations of [space alien science] including the whole [inter dimensional] versus [inter-stellar] debate, but the [transformation] meta data layer along with it supporting sub set of [duality] meta data layer will be in control of the [space alien science interest wave] such that 2009 will mark merely the beginning of the effort.

At the other end of the spectrum of this same emotive spread is the [sorcerer] sub set. This is a variant on much of the language within the [science of the space alien] linguistic set. The [sorcerer] sub set appears to be more focused on [practioners of techniques/disciplines] as opposed to those who might be more interested in an [academic] understanding of the subject. There are other indications, including cross links forming over to the SpaceGoatFarts entity where they terminate in the [light emitters/photonic creators], that the [sorcerers] will be more [crafts persons] than professors. There are 3/three specific [sorcerer personalities] which rise to the level of global mediastream in [visibility] summations, and whose appearance is forecast for May or June of 2009. These [sorcerer personalities] are extensively cross linked over to the SpaceGoatFarts entity, as well as to the ThePowersThatBe entity. In both entities, the [revolution] meta data layer is the area where the links terminate.

Populace/USofA - Disease Politicale', New Deal (at the old same place)

There are a number of very high emotional summation aspect/attribute sets which all contain support for the larger, meta data layer of the [restrictions on movement]. This meta data layer is a 'twin', or complement to the [encounters with scarcity]. Logically, if there are [restrictions on movement] from whatever cause, the potential for [encounters with scarcity] also exists. Each of these meta data layers occurs on its own within the various sub sets of the entities, but ultimately they are reinforcing of each other, and the appearance of either presages the pending appearance of the other. Within the Populace/USofA entity, and coming into focus in the Fall, which is to say, post September 21 equinox, the meta data layers of [restrictions on movement] and [encounters with scarcity] both have very large increases in their emotional summation values for [duration], and [intensity]. Further, both are supported from a large number of sub sets, and these sub sets increase markedly over September, October, and November. As modelspace progresses into November, the meta data layer of [restrictions on movement] escalates to a very near dominant summation status within the Populace/USofA entity. This is to say that virtually all the major sub sets of contexts within the Populace/USofA entity have an instance of support for the [restrictions on movement] meta data layer.

A very prominent layer of support for [restrictions on movement] within the Populace/USofA entity derives most of its emotional summation support from [disease]. The [disease] sub set in this instance could be interpreted as being [used/employed] in order to [induce/cause restrictions on movement]. There are some elements to suggest that [all will not be as seen on its face]. Other supporting aspect/attribute sets indicate that [restrictions on movement] will [follow/trail disease spread]. The [disease] aspect/attribute set has repeated layers of cross links both over to the Terra entity and to the SpaceGoatFarts entity. The [sun disease] is also affecting the [populace/USofA]. The SpaceGoatFarts entity suggests through the rise of the [secrets revealed] sub set over the course of 2008 and 2009, that as the [revolution] meme begins to rise, so does the [contact] meme, especially relative to the [disease] and [sun disease] sub sets. Within the shorter term values from the Populace/USofA entity, the [disease] sub set also has 'boots-on-the-ground' implications for both the [military], and the [populace-at-large]. There are indications that [disease] will be associated with [new behavior] in [veterans] which will/has spread to the [populace]. This [spread of disease] meme within these sub sets may be referring to an increased awareness and a [social movement] in support of [veterans] against the TPTB/elites. And actual [disease] contagion, or the wide spread rising of a general concern for [veterans health] could each fill the linguistics within this sub set of supporting aspect/attributes for [disease].

Now we need to note that [restrictions on movement] also is supported by very large numbers of [economic] sub sets for the [populace/usofa]. These also have a certain amount of [disease] sub set linguistics within them. It could be that the [disease] indicated is the [death of the dollar]. That is certainly the case within the [economic] sub sets. There are also counter indicators that [disease] will be merely an [excuse] for TPTB to attempt yet more [control of populace] measures as the [economic chaos] spreads. The totality of the [economic chaos] afflicting the [populace/usofa] over Fall and Winter leads to a huge loss of [global prestige] for the USofA which then further supports the [restrictions on movement] as both the [elite ruling class of the USofABilderberger], and the [officialdom] of other countries try to [restrict the movements] of [people and goods] from the USA in an attempt to [limit the spread] of the [economic chaos].

There are specific [disease] references which provide associations to the [political process] and which derive support from a [disease (spreading through) the political process] such that the meta data layer of [revolution] gets a large boost. This sub set also is tied to the [unburdening/extractions] of the [evangelical organizations] beginning in the [terrible winter] of 2008. Further this [disease within political process] also provides support for the [radicalization] of the [populace/usofa] which really takes off in Summer of 2009, but will have its roots in the [manifestation of political disease] in Fall.

Over the last 2/two ALTA report series the data sets have produced a few, very rare, instances of emotional summations swinging into 'positive' ranges. While we have positive emotional summations occurring constantly, usually the larger aggregations are dominated by negative emotional sums. Also noting that the positives always are appearing against larger background summations which fall into negative ranges. The accretion patterns for the Populace/USofA has provided a very rare instance of a larger aggregate moving into plosive territory, and this linguistic set moves into position beginning in January (likely related to the removal of the Bushies), then builds to a smallish plateau and continues through Spring. The primary aspect/attribute set is both plosive and negative at its primary support level in a real expression of universe humor and [duality], to whit: [gathering/coming_together (amidst/in facing) commonly shared adversity]. The [coming_together] can also be interpreted as [bonding] or [joining] or [building toward unanimous purpose]. This is an often over-looked, or even minimized emotional context which has surprisingly huge potential as humans have repeatedly demonstrated to universe over the millions of years of omnihumanity history. Such artifacts as the great cities of the past, the pyramids scattered over the planet, the ruins on the moon and Mars, and even possibly the formerly derelict Iapetus artificial moon stand as evidence of a whole lot of people coming together/bonding around an idea. Modern examples include the Great Wall of China, and in a sort of 'enforced bonding' way, the Long March of Mao and the early Chinese Communists. This last is an example which produced no artifacts, but effectively changed what was thought to be [predictable history]. So the evidence of the effectiveness of the [bonding] and the [chi/ki/prana energy] put into the idea by the humans is the past and current Chinese governmental and social structure. Other examples such as the New Deal here in the USofA also are social/governmental change producing [bonding] episodes. The data suggests that yet another such episode will be in place by Spring of 2009 in the USofA.

The data also suggests that the [surrounding/supporting circumstances] will be best described by the aspect/attribute set [dire]. This is modified by [bleak]. However, within the [hopeful bonding energy] aspect/attribute set the rising supporting sets include [self-renewal (by) own efforts], as well as [inner works produce results]. The [inner works] sub set is also part of a larger linguistic set which goes to [changes (in) 2/two out of 3/three institutions]. This set is composed of longer term values which are associated with the shorter term sets which are forecasting the release language shift in October. This implies that the [change of conditions] which begins in October with the shift into rapid, and dominating release language for the subsequent 4/four months following will produce longer term changes in the social infrastructure of such magnitude that 2/3rds (two-thirds) of the [collective social order] here in the USofA will be affected or impacted. These changes do explicitly include [government] at all levels, but also include the beginning of the ['unburdening' of the evangelicals]. This last has its first rise to [visibility] within the global mediastream in December of 2008, and continues as a social wave through at least March of 2010. The [officialdom] or [government] is indicated to not really appreciate the [change in circumstances], and this [internal reaction] will include bespoke [resistance], and [obstruction]. It is this [resistance (to the) revolutionary/change wave] which accounts for both the forecast of a rise of [fascism] and the shift into a [bloody] and [violent] [revolution] here in the USofA which is concurrent with the [pan global insurrection]. This brings us back to a core element of the [revolution-to-come], and that is a currently forming [gathering/coming_together/bonding] sub set which continues to grow throughout 2009 and 2010 as modelspace is progressed forward. The growth of the [gathering] sub set is at a base level in the supporting pyramid of aspect/attributes for the meta data layer of revolution.

Within the [gathering] sub set for this coming Spring (2009), the [populace/USofA] is indicated to have at least some optimism. The data under the [hopeful occupancies] includes several areas that are heavily cross linked over to the SpaceGoatFarts entity, and, most significantly, also cross linked over to areas of ThePowersThatBe entity where the meta data layer of [secrets revealed] is dominant. The interpretation of these aspects/attribute sets again brings in the [light emitters/photonic generators?] previously noted under SpaceGoatFarts entity in this series. The data sets forming up in supporting aspects in Populace/USofA entity which are [dually] cross linked to SpaceGoatFarts and TPTB are now centering their emotional summations around the idea of [hopefulness] or [enhanced optimism] which in part will be [generated] by [rumors/leaks/evidence] of [inventions]. It is our interpretation, admittedly with a jutnob/nutjob bias, that the supporting aspect/attribute sets for [invention] are actually focused on [leaked alien technology]. This interpretation can easily be wrong. There are several, just as credible alternatives, but since they are all linked to at least some sub sets of the [contact] meme within the SpaceGoatFarts entity, they have 'issues' of their own. Such alternative interpretations could be that [rumors of space alien 'rescue' of humanity here on earth] will propel the [hopeful optimism] which takes over the national mood in March of 2009. Or it could be that [new discoveries/inventions] are merely [tainted by rumor] about their origins. In any event, there are direct supporting aspects/attribute sets for [leaks] about these [inventions/discoveries] which themselves are a major supporting sub set of the [increased optimism amidst trying/challenging circumstances].

The rise of the [increased optimism] is NOT to say that 'things are good', or that 'happy days are here again', but actually to convey the reverse. The data is drawing the picture of a [relief wave] of a form following the nearly 5/five months of continuous [emotional release language]. The [relief wave] is an emotional response to the actual pause in the [release language trend], and as such is a natural counter-reaction of [hope] springing back from the previous emotional state persisting all those months.

Much of the [spring optimism] will be subjected to the [withering effects] of [blathering debate] at the national level, however the data indicates that by the end of Spring, the [leaders step forward], being [forced into action] by the [manifesting circumstances]. Apparently the mere emergence of a [leadership group] is enough to [get things moving/accelerate actions], and the other side of the emotional tones show that even the [debaters/nay_sayers] will be [content] to [get going/take actions] as the planet moves nearer the June Solstice, 2009.

A part of the linguistics are cross linked over to the Press entity which represents the [corporate funded propaganda machine], and this entity shows that the slogan of Summer 2009 and beyond in the [new new deal] will be ['opportunity/chance to make the most of your abilities']. A sort of ['ask not what your country can do for you..'] emotive echo.

Of course, it is the pending experience of October, through the rest of Fall and Winter 2008/2009 which sets up the conditions for the [plosive] emotional summations against a [bad background]. The data sets are still forecasting a large, and personally felt by every USofA citizen/resident [loss of currency/money]. In this instance, and given the many economic cycles which are ending at this point, the natural interpretation is that this [loss of money] is not so much about the personal loss of wealth, as the [nation] as a collective experiencing the [loss of the currency] as in the final [death of the dollar].

There are currently reassuring signs in the markets actions of this last week that ThePowersThatBe will be able to muddle through and hold things together at least through the rest of Summer. That is in line with the our forecast from ALTA reports in 2007 that a more [buoyant mood] would be [promulgated] by the [officialdom] over the last half of July 2008 through the first half of September 2008. Then comes the [stumble], and at the end of Summer the forecast [lock down] of the [markets]. Both of these set the stage for the forecast shift into emotional release language for October 7th to be triggered by a huge financial system problem of staggering, even [epic] proportions. And as strange as it may sound, this is a good thing in that it provides a non-war trigger for the shift into release language. The alternative to an [economic/fiscal meltdown] as trigger for the [shift into release language plunge (of nearly 5/five months duration)] does seem worse, but as the world turns, who really knows? Global financial death of the dollar would seem to be involved even in the case of [misguided/misdirected military adventurism].

SpaceGoatFarts - Meme Theme, Disordered Bundle

Recent crop circles appearing in England are showing repeated Mayan symbols in a very 'in your face' manner. Further 2/two new crop circles appeared on July 15th of this year each with a bit of special noteworthy nuance. The first shows the planetary positions for the solstice on December 21, 2012 which provides for yet again more impetus for the 2012 meme. Further, as these are now encoding Mayan symbols, we are yet again referred back to the Mayan Long Count and its rapidly approaching ending...less than a archetypical "handful" of years now.

The other crop circle to show up on July 15th, a seeming hodgepodge of triangular elements connected in odd ways, is in fact a Fuller projection style of map. As you will note from the images both at the Fuller site, and the crop circle, the triangular bits are all joined together to form a near sphere with accurate relationships without the distortions of the more common Mercator and other styles of flattening out the sphere into a 2/d projection. This new crop circle map shows a sphere, presuming a planet, but if it is a projection of earth, then it is an earth greatly changed....or we are wrong, either about the planet represented, or the whole idea of it being a map. But if we are correct.....then yet again, at a deeper level, more of the "theme of the meme" showing up, or rather, down...in the wheat.

The data accretion patterns would seem to suggest that further crop circles as well as [new ufo behavior] will be [2012 referencing] over the rest of Summer. The data sets suggest that further [patterns (of) activity] will be much more [enlightening] than previously seen, and that both [crop circles] and [new ufo behavior] will be directly driving a [renewed/refreshed] interest in the [2012] meme. These are forecast as being a supporting part of the [contact decision journey] as well as having [impacts (on the) national mood] of a particular northern 'island' nation as the [new behavior of the UFO] brings up a very [deep seated/buried] issue. The [deep hole] in the [collective psyche] which is opened by the [new behavior of the UFO] will also intrude on [politics] in that some of the [woo-woo crowd] will be [ascending] along with the [wave of interest] in both [crop circles], and the previously discussed [space alien science].

As part of the sub sets in support of the [contact decision] lexical set, the recent processing has added a hint of a multiply faceted situation which is indicated to develop over [summer], and to begin to show higher [visibility] shortly after the September equinox. The data sets further indicate that the situations will be [difficult to resolve], will extend out into Winter, and will be a [continuing source of problems] and [embarrassment]. There are hints that a [sex scandal] will [cripple the leadership at NASA] as well as extending out to [other countries]. Some small sub sets may be suggesting that [espionage] is involved. In any case, by the end of Winter, the data suggests that there will be [resignations] as well as [displacement] as the [old regime] begins to [fail] in a very [dramatic] way given the circumstances that exist in Winter. The longer term sets running out to May of 2009 are also continuing to suggest that [officialdom] has a [long ache], or [long illness] with regard to the [space masters] group, and that even in late Spring of 2009, new [elements] of the [scandal] will be [surfacing] within the global mediastream. Many of the [people in charge] are described as being [destroyed], as will many [dead people]. The implication from this last is that the [reputations] of [dead scientists/space leaders] will be [destroyed] as the [scandal] continues to percolate throughout [officialdom in charge of space].

Markets - Lock Down Pending

There is still some hope that the TPTB, including the PPT (plunge protection team) can maintain-the-strain currently on the [markets] and keep 'things going' until near the September equinox. It is our view here at HPH that should there be a [summer crash] of the [markets], then the plunge into release language in Fall would likely be triggered by [military] actions, and would be dominated by [military] as the primary descriptor. If the [markets] can be held from [collapse] over Summer, then the expectation is that the [death of the currency (usofa dollar as global reserve)] would be the most likely trigger, and thereafter dominant feature of the 5/five months spent in the planetary plunge into release language.

There are large expressions of [duality] within the [death of the dollar] meme, and these go to the differing levels of [suffering] caused by the [loss of currency]. In the case of GlobalPop, there are clear indicators that the [death of the dollar], and the [retirement of the American Empire] are good things, especially for local food [supplies] and [prices]. Not so for the [populace/USofA] who will be placed in the position of [absorbing] the [century of manipulation] as the [schemes unwind]. It will be this last, that is to say the horrific levels of [suffering] here in the USofA which produces the 3/three [outbreaks/results] which build and express themselves over the next 19/nineteen months.

The Markets entity, in conjunction with the Populace/USofA entity via cross links is indicating that the [economic] component of the release language period, which provides now about 45/forty-five percent of the total emotional sums, will produce and [outbreak of fascism] and a [popular response], as well as an [outbreak of emigration/fleeing] which will seriously deplete the [population of illegal aliens], and finally an [outbreak of violence] which will feed back into the [outbreak of fascism/control]. All of these will support the rise of the [fascistic officialdom] in early 2009, which begins with [oppression], and follows up with [repression] such that by Summer of 2009 the [populace/usofa] is firmly into [radicalization].

The above forecast is probably not good for [markets], either here in the USofA, or globally. First though, we have to get through the forecast [2/two months] of a more [buoyant] mood. The forecast of a [2/two month hiatus/stalling] from the [collapse] has been in place for over a year, and specifically referenced the period from mid-July through to the end of September. If accurate, we should see some form of [stabilization] of [markets], though not necessarily any form of real recovery. We remind that the forecasts include [officialdom] going to some effort to [clamp down], or [lock down] the [trading systems] in an effort to [keep control] of the processes. Further, these [actions of limitation] will be a proximate cause of the following [seizure/rigidity] which induces [no actions/trading] that in turn causes the actual [collapse] of the [system].

The [collapse] of the [trading system] is such that the [markets] are [depleted] of [actions/transactions/trades]. This is a small part of the support for the [death of the dollar] and its impacts on the [populace] globally as the [loss of (reserve) currency] affects international trading at all levels.

The data sets continue to describe the Fall and Winter [markets] with the primary descriptor support of [descending/unwinding]. Further the whole of the 6/six months from the September equinox to the March 2009 equinox are currently dominated by [natural and correct] which are in support of [descending/unwinding], as though the data suggests a statement thus: [it is natural and correct that the markets descend/unwind]. Bearing in mind that the modelspace as a whole has the planetary populace in a plunging surf down the wave of release language during Fall and Winter, it would be fitting the rest of the modelspace if a global, market system collapse was taking place over those months.

Conclusion: ALTA 509 - Part Two :- Red Pill Dissolving

The planet and its inhabitants are rapidly approaching a precipice over which we cannot yet see, but whose extent we can guess from the echoes coming from deep below. This edge of time will mark the last point at which the appellation of [normal], given the context of the latter half of the 20th century, may be applied. Yet another way to consider the planetary progress is that finally we are all moving into the New Millennium, and all the kicking and screaming won't slow down the abrupt jump into this 21st century even a millisecond. All it will do is to irritate the neighbors, and delay the screamer/whiner's ability to assess the new conditions. Not that there won't be a whole lot of folks who succumb to the [urge to scream], and though most will be [entrenched elites], the noise will nonetheless be an issue for the rest of us crossing the threshold into the [new days].

According to modelspace, the thing to do will be to [keep your silence] while [applying discriminating/discerning vision] to the [developing reality] around us all. Bearing in mind that we have had forecasts for several years that we are approaching a time of the [surreal manifesting], and that [surreal landscape] will include [surreal language] which both will contribute to a large part of the [populace] going [batshit crazy] and [stuttering insane] due to [rampaging cognitive dissonance]. The end result is that the [compassionate few] will be required to [care for the many mentally disabled/dysfunctional persons] who are described as [littering the landscape] and [clogging the roads (with dithering inactivity)].

Enjoy the last of Summer, as this will also be the last of the 'good days' from the last 'normal period' for a loooooong while as humanity is forced by karmic flows to accept a serious level of planetary change over these next, ever so few years. We note that we are within the archetypical 'hand' of years prior to the culmination of a meme which has its beginning at the very start of the Long Count, in August 11, 3114 B.C.E. and finishes its 5000/five thousand plus year cycle just a short [four years] from this next Winter Solstice. Coincidentally, 4/four years from now we also complete the 13,900 (thirteen thousand nine hundred) year journey through 'precessional night' and cross into an equally long 'precessional day' just as our solar system completes its transit of the Milky Way galaxy center. Hmmm. Feels like something Big is coming with a really large capital B. And it is increasingly likely to 'feel that way' to large parts of the populace of the planet....especially given the upcoming [rapid onslaught of change] that the [release language period] represents.

So as you go walk-about in these last halcyon days of Summer enjoying the times, and gradually becoming aware of the world around you dissolving into the surreal, don't forget, you took the Red Pill, and it is just now hitting your stomach and starting to dissolve along with your ego, and any sense of reality that you may have left. But do not panic. Write yourself a note if you still can write. Say...."I took a mind altering substance. Everything will be OK. Just don't go outside or play with sharp things"....

Don't panic. As the Red Pill dissolves your ego and world into a rushing kaleidoscope of twisting alternate dimensions, just remember that the rush will carry you through to October 7th when you'll peak on the experience, and its is all down hill from there to near-sobriety in late February, 2009. In the meantime, you might as well learn to enjoy the trip as we are in the rabbit-hole now, and we can just hear the manic laughter of the Red Queen echoing from just around the next (time) bend...
